LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

the selfless giving of herself to a student's endless demands betrays a love for her profession for which she could speak in no more blatant way method, psychology, knowledge are of no avail without human perception and understanding tempered by humor this elusive combination is found in the person of Luella Kretschmar who in gentle devotion chides the reluctant student and nudges him on to share her love for chemistry

"Lost in the shadows of yesterday ensnared in the labyrinth of tomorrows" we follow the twisted paths from birth to death.
But the road of life is not an easy road for it crosses sandy wastes and stony fields.
Our feet were set upon it by those who went before us and we have no choice but to follow it to the end.
The child's pathway sometimes lies along an alien shore bewildering, exciting, terrifying, triumphant.
Many have followed it before him and many must follow, but in his secret heart he must walk it alone.
"We live and in living we weave tangled skeins daily spinning the tapestry of agony and joy of hope and despair that mortals call

The Ages of Man

New in the world of man they stare in breathless wonder at the life that pulsates around them, a world where everything takes on vast importance and significance when seen through the cherry colored light of childhood.

an age of innocence the april morning of life a world all daffodil yellow and magic a world of sunlight through honey a singing cricket a blade of grass the newborn dragonfly a nightingale's laugh pigeons flying in a papery white world the confused colors of the fanciful world, a rainbow chaos in long sequences of tempera, light filtered through the essence of lemons, the strange soundless music of enchanted topaz tambourines a kaleidoscope of fun fanfare and fantasy

a time of sadness black shadows of despair corridors of darkness leading nowhere a time of happiness yellow pools of phosphorus light the pink glow of the sun starscapes on blue velvet a time of poppy colored confetti glitter of red gold rain of smoke silvered tinfoil stars and the moment of the rose is forever

Their days are the spaces between dreams, their thought, the cobwebs of dreams.

They float on private clouds of illusion dreamily lassoing the misty morning moon.

They drift in a world of mists and paper-thin mirages.

They are the fog dwellers living in the opaque tangle of quick-silver emotions and pensive ponderings.

one day we awake to an apricot morning and find we have left the shallow pleasures of youth,
we have passed through the season of thistles into the warm full afternoon into an amber world of the full blown summer this age

the fire of life

an age of working of relaxing

a time of love of yellow jade

a time

of bronze of hectic realism of life

this is the october country the dwelling place of winter twilight
the color of evening from a warm mood of languor at the end of autumn we pass into a winter landscape a world half eaten by shadows with darkening days and fading flowers echoing the perfumes of yesteryear these are the aged sketched in dusty smeared charcoal on tattered worn paper

their fragments of life like pieces of broken glass

shuttered streaks of light on sad
brown velvet

frail circles of light filigree
and candlelight

like a pale star they slowly sink below the horizon into the stillness of death

Thus the world of life revolves around us behind us, in front of us with its beginning and its ending.
But somewhere woven inextricably into the design is the college experience.
Here in this world apart we dwell in a chrysalis of formation preparing to meet life that awaits seeking our niche searching for meaning.
But as our potential to live mounts we break from our protective shell as the proverbial butterfly ready to face tomorrow and tomorrow is forever . . .

President's Message

Into this METEOR have gone hundreds of hours of planning, discussion, work, and worry--all to remind us in future years of what happened at LSC in 1961-62.

To Editor Lily Phang and associates must go a sincere tribute of thanks from those who will study this volume and find in it the story of a busy school year. It tells not only present but also future La Sierrans that college life is an exhilarating and a rewarding experience.

I join those who have labored so well to place this annual before the public in wishing our alumni, students, patrons, and friends moments and hours of pleasure as you peruse the pages of the 1962 METEOR.

Behind that door-- lies responsibility a test of human courage a world of challenge.
The person going through that door-- is a woman.
She has education to meet the responsibility love to give her courage, and dedication to face the challenge.
